The Jungmeister project continues. Pretty much all covered now. Lots of details to finish. Power is a DLE 20RA. Fits nicely into the nose. With the tank accessible from the firewall, the gas engine install was good. Motor mounts could be lower and longer but I think they will work fine. Decals were a little more pricey than I hoped for so some of them will remain missing for a while.

Paint for the cowling is still being decided on, again first quotes were really spendy. Not being set up for spraying any more does come at a cost.

The silver Ultra Cote is nice but every little flaw even dust shows through because of the reflective characteristics.

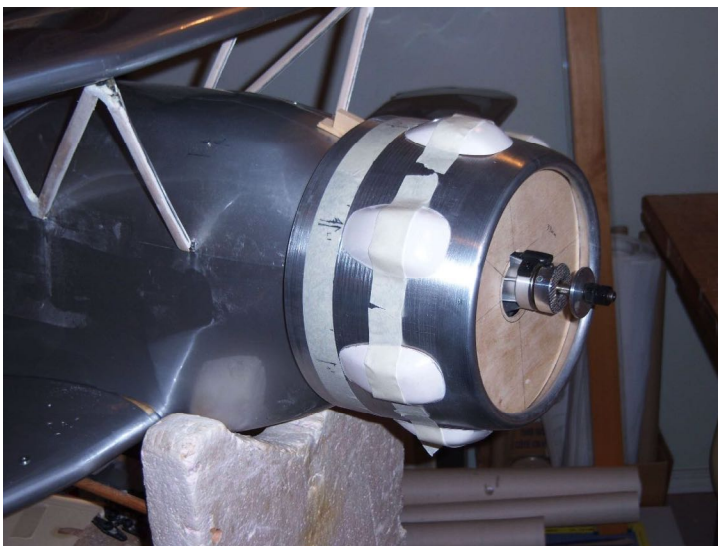

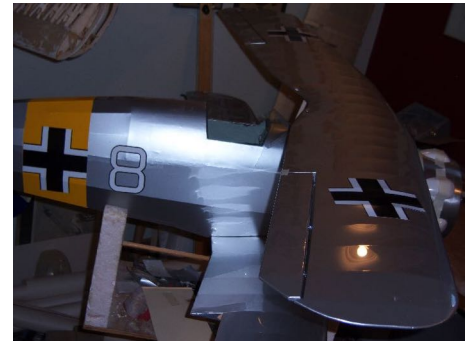

Might not make it to the field this spring, but there is always the Arrowmaster, Ballerina, and the new Peggy Sue to fly. Lots of airplanes in the hangar right now, so picking one or two for an event is getting harder each time.

The cowl is aluminum and the blisters are plastic. Will need a coat of filling primer before it gets paint. Because I'm going to gas I can use a spray bomb silver poly or enamel. I think I will look for poly.

You can see a plywood former in the cowl. This is required to get the intake air volume sized correctly for the available exhaust air. Enough weight involved that this not a plane to fly without the cowl.

I am not happy with the windscreen so I think its getting cut off and redone.

EDITOR'S SOAPBOX

Eraldo Pomare

The last indoor event of the season was well attended - 14 flyers. Unfortunately, I was unable to attend; this did not go unnoticed by several club members :(

The field is in GREAT SHAPE! There were quite a few folks out on the afternoon of Sunday April 7th. Ken Heck, Jolon Martin, Harvey Fodor and Will Gross were all flying when I was there. Another half a dozen members showed up just to check out the field, hangar fly & watch! A great afternoon, with at least one very decent thermal!

For some of us, this was one of the first outdoor flying sessions of the year. Let's remember to keep our minds on task and not be complacent around engines and larger electrics. Their bite can be quite painful and damaging.

Above: Jolon showed us he can fly fixed wing just as well as rotary wing aircraft.

Below Right: Will Gross' model on final

Preparation for the May 4th CARFF Auction

Rob McCoy has many of the preparations for the auction well in hand.

As always, the club needs all hands on deck to make this event successful; please attend the May 1st club meeting to discuss final preparations and to volunteer for roles and tasks for the May 4th auction at Sylvan Lake Community Centre, 4725 - 43 Street.

Please plan to make yourself available from 08:00 to ~20:00 or so on auction day. If you can't make the whole day, please try to be available for a good portion of the day.
